

Position Available

Assistant/Associate Professor

Department of Health Policy and Management

The College of Public Health at the University of Georgia invites applications and nominations for a faculty position in the Department of Health Policy and Management. As the only public CEPH accredited school of public health in Georgia, the College of Public Health promotes health in human populations through innovative research, exemplary education, and engaged service dedicated to preventing disease and injury within the state and around the world. We seek candidates who are at the assistant or associate level. The successful candidate will assume a key role in developing the management curriculum for the department, in addition to expanding the College's research portfolio in health administration and management.

Applicants should have an advanced degree (PhD, DrPH, or other relevant health professional degree) in health administration, finance, health services research, health informatics, management, health policy or a related discipline. (Students in the final stages of degree completion will be considered.) The successful applicant will possess experience in one or more of the fields mentioned, and a promising record or potential for accomplishment in teaching, research, and practical application of management in the health field. Women and minority candidates are encouraged to apply. Applications received by November 13th, 2009 will receive full consideration.

Please send: 1) a statement of interest in the position and 2) a curriculum vitae to:
